Experience

Lead Developer (Full-Stack Developer)
Matchbox Design Group
November 2012 - Present

Matchbox Design Group is a full-service digital agency in St. Louis, MO. They specialize in building custom websites that are easy to use. They have a large range of types of clients from around the St. Louis area.

I am responsible for managing the development process for all projects. I help build out the larger back end features in PHP such as inventory importers. Along with helping to move forward process and communication initiatives between the different teams.

Mentor
LaunchCode
May 2016 - June 2017

LaunchCode is a program that helps participants make the transition into development. They teach the fundamentals of development and help with job placement.

I mentored 3 different participants helping them with their final project. I helped them with coding, process and architecture questions. All 3 of the participants completed their projects.

Web Developer
Freeman Marketing
May 2012 - November 2012

Freeman Marketing at that time was a small agency based out of St. Charles, MO. That specialized in building custom WordPress websites for local businesses. I was an in-office contractor during my time there.

I was responsible for converting Photoshop designs into WordPress marketing websites. Along with some content and SEO strategy. For part of the time there I was helping an intern web developer as well that was in school.
